Sustainable Health Review

- SHR was paused and now we are remobilising
- It's about a cultural shift
- Places consumers at the centre of decision-making
- Requires a whole of government approach
- Will need leadership, courage and unwavering commitment to stay on course
- Using a Program approach is an important enabler to staying on course

Program update

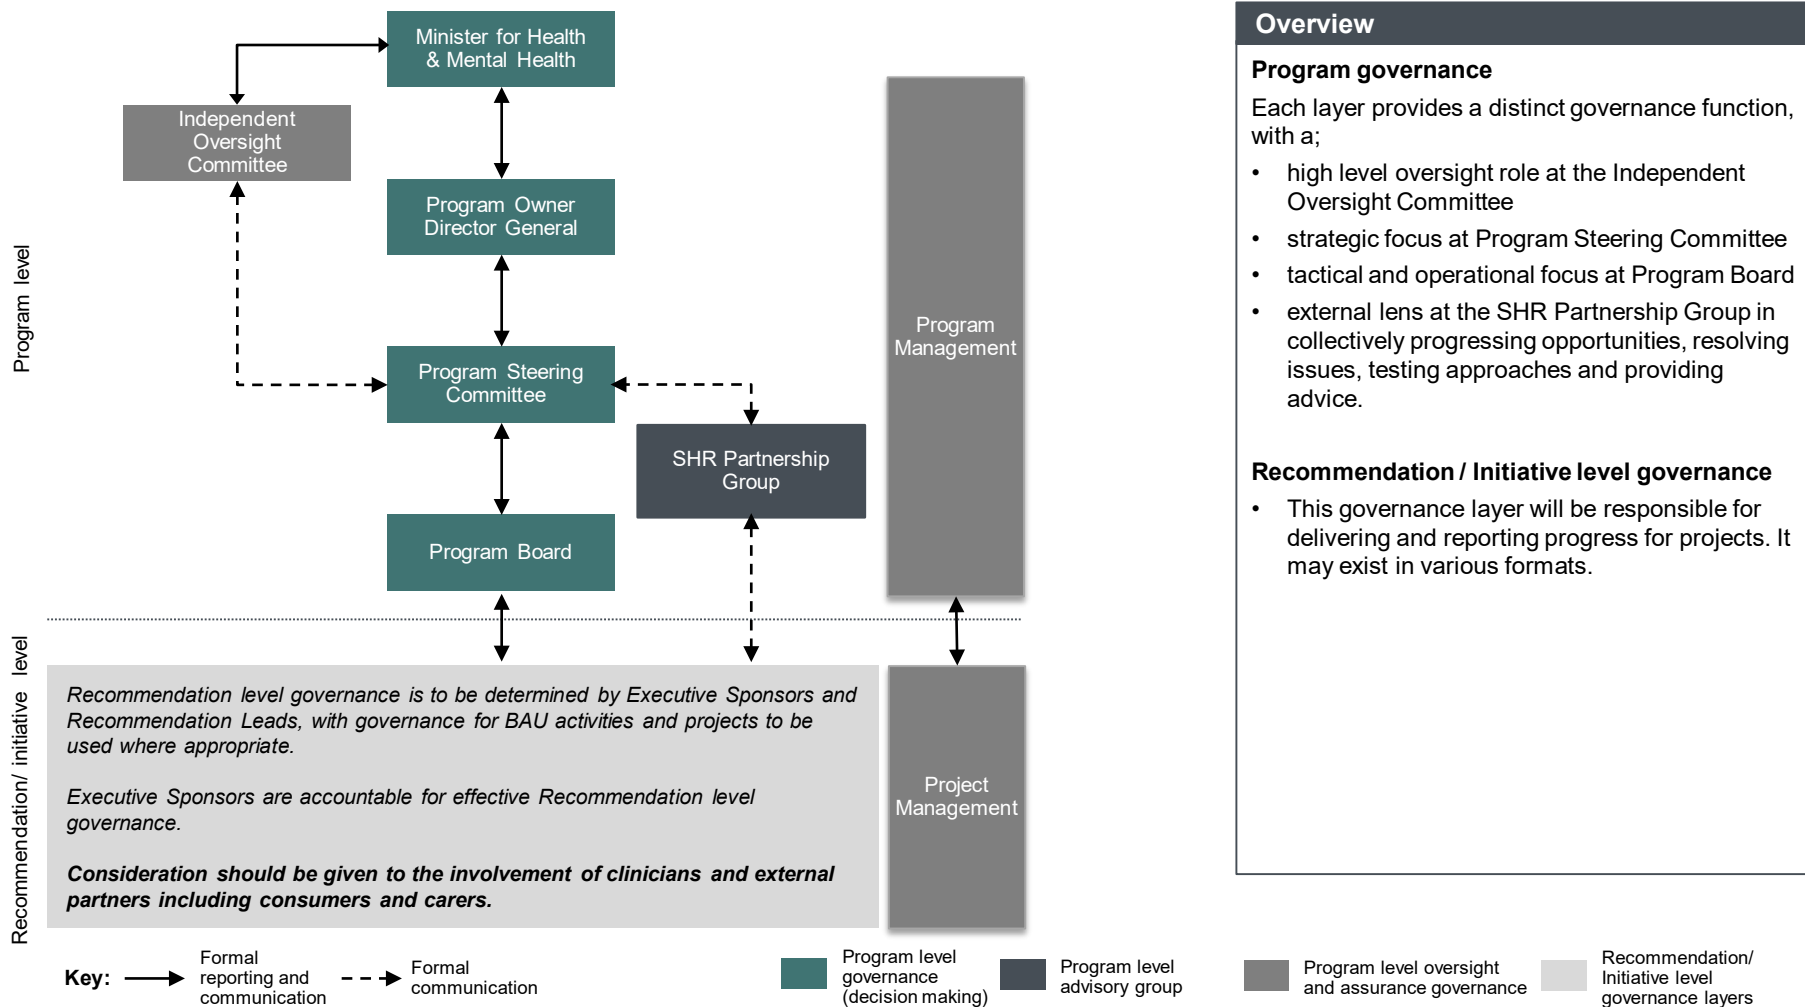

2.1 Sustainable Health Review – Program mobilisation

The health system is progressing planning for the Sustainable Health Implementation Program (Program).

Prior to SHR release	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• In June 2017, the Government of Western Australia announced the Sustainable Health Review (SHR) to prioritise the delivery of patient-centred, high quality and financially sustainable healthcare across the State.• Following extensive consultation and engagement with stakeholders across Western Australia, the SHR Panel published its Final Report in April 2019.• The Final Report has 8 Enduring Strategies and 30 Recommendations which seek to drive a cultural and behavioural shift across the health system.
Following SHR Release	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Following the release of the Final Report, the health system progressed early implementation planning in addition to progressing activities from the Interim Report, many of these Interim Recommendation activities have been finalised and closed.• 6 Pilot activities were funded from the 2012-19 State budget.
Program Principles	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The SHR defines 8 Enduring Strategies built around the pillars of sustainability. The SHR pillars of sustainability are anchored to the internationally recognised 'quadruple aim of healthcare': patient experience; staff engagement; quality, safety and population health; and cost and waste reduction.• It is important for the WA health system to demonstrate the benefits of the changes that are made to the people of WA.• Staying true to the intent of the SHR Final Report, we want to ensure that the insights, diverse views and experience of staff and partners are part of our planning process.• There will be opportunities for consumers, carers, clinicians and representatives from across the health system to work with us in the co-creation of the Program.• This will enable the Program to build on work already underway throughout the system and to scope and co-create additional projects.• It is important that this process is adaptable, flexible and able to accommodate the needs of many partners across the health system, while also maintaining a focus on achieving the person-centred outcomes outlined in the SHR Final Report.

2.2 Program governance overview

This governance structure has been developed for the Program.

Overview

Program governance

Each layer provides a distinct governance function, with a;

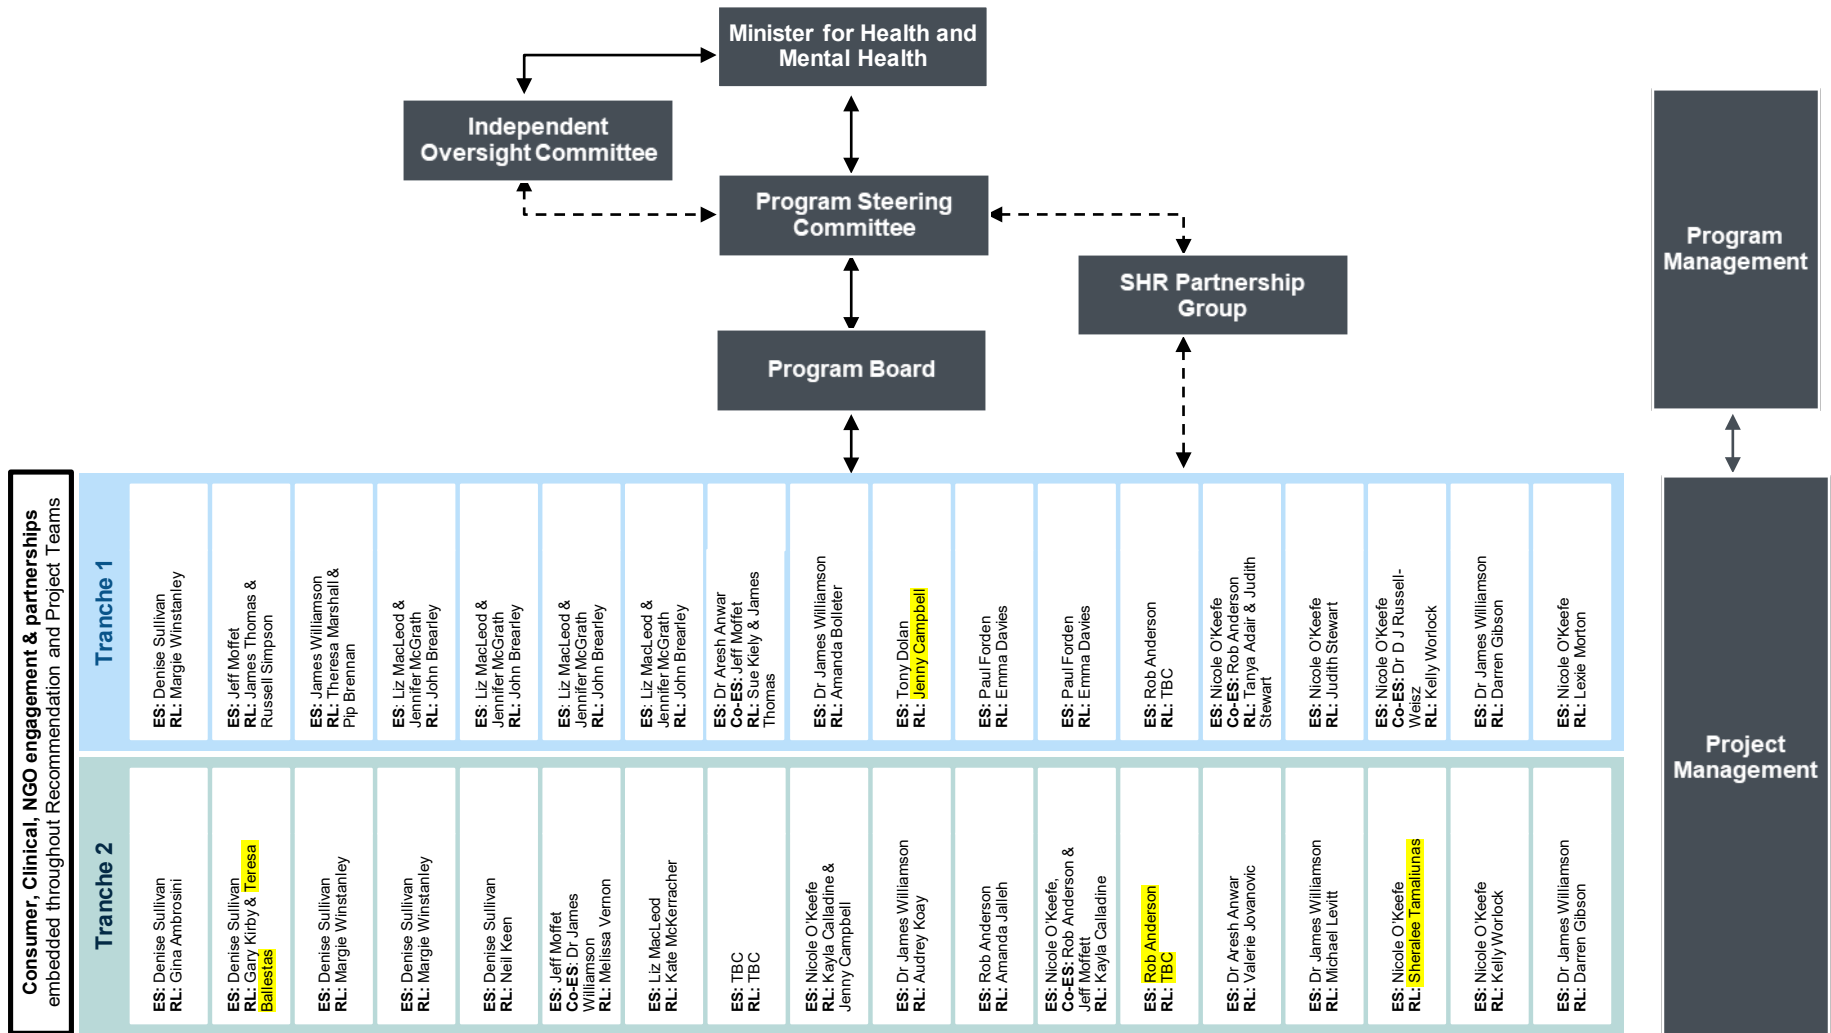

- high level oversight role at the Independent Oversight Committee
- strategic focus at Program Steering Committee
- tactical and operational focus at Program Board
- external lens at the SHR Partnership Group in collectively progressing opportunities, resolving issues, testing approaches and providing advice.

Recommendation / Initiative level governance

- This governance layer will be responsible for delivering and reporting progress for projects. It may exist in various formats.

2.3 Executive Sponsors and Recommendation Leads

Recommendations are assigned an Executive Sponsor to provide accountability and a Recommendation Lead to support implementation.

2.4 SHR Partnership Group

- Inaugural meeting held on 24 September 2020.
- Advisory body to the Program Steering Committee and Independent Oversight Committee and comprises key external partners, consumers and those with lived experience, and internal health system leaders.
- Members include consumers, people with lived experience and representatives from peak body organisations, government agencies and Health Service Providers – including representation from regional and remote, culturally and linguistically diverse, youth.
- The Group will work together as partners to collectively progress opportunities, resolve issues, test approaches and provide advice as required on Program components.

2.5 Partner Engagement update

- External partnerships with organisations, agencies and consumers is a key principle of the Program.
- It is critical to ensure that the insights, diverse views and experience of staff, partners and consumers are part of the Program. There are a number of initiatives underway to ensure this is embedded and ongoing in a meaningful way. These include:
 1. Governance: SHR Partnership Group membership includes organisations, consumers and people with lived experience; and Co-Recommendation Leads where possible.
 2. Mobilisation/Implementation Support: Outsourcing Program e.g. AHCWA and supporting the Aboriginal Health components SHR; WACOSS and social outcomes and partnership measurement.
 3. Principles of Co-Design: with stakeholders built into scoping and implementation approaches.
 4. Communications: ensuring regular Program communications and status reports, internally and externally.

2.6 Keeping connected

Enabling all Western Australians to connect, share and improve our health services.

- It is recognised that Consumers and carers are at the heart of the Sustainable Health review and as such, there is a commitment to ensuring engagement across all levels of implementation.
- Across the health system, there already exists several platforms that facilitate and enable consumer engagement. These are being leveraged where appropriate within the Program.
- These avenues will be utilised to embed the consumer and carer voice in the work we do, and help guide the direction of the Program.
- As part of the communications strategy, additional mechanisms or channels for two way engagement are being reviewed.
